New York PET Program—April 2015-Present

Hurricane Sandy made landfall in the fall of 2012 causing significant damage all along the eastern coast of the US. As a result federal funds were allocated to help with various recovery initiatives.

The New York PET Program run by the Governor's Office of Storm Recovery is one of the many programs in place to assist with Hurricane Sandy recovery. DSW Homes, under the direction of the Armand Corporation, is working in this program to perform minor maintenance, restoration and construction services on single family residences in New York (excluding New York City). These projects took place in many areas of Long Island. As of December 2015, DSW Homes has completed 86 projects in this program.

To Whom it may Concern:

After losing my home during storm Sandy, I've had many Construction Workers doing various jobs. - But Superintendent Mark Naradowski from your Company was the most competent & nicest of all. you are fortunate to have such a person in your employment.

Would you kindly give a Copy to Mr. Naradowski.

Very Sincerely
Mrs. Audrey Rechner
